Yes I wholeheartedly support client change in the Gulf of Carpentaria. By fighting climate change, adapting to its impacts, reducing coastal flooding, and restoring Blue Carbon ecosystems, we can create job opportunities, improve biodiversity, protect cultural heritage, and promote tourism and local businesses. This project's landscape-scale initiatives can make a significant positive impact, addressing the region's losses of blue carbon habitats caused by climate and sea level changes. Together, we can build resilience, foster sustainable development, and contribute to the global fight against climate change.
