Just highlighting 2 concerns that occurred the last time the mine was running. The trucks were supposed to have tracking wheels but there was at least one truck which the carriages wavered around dangerously on our narrow Cox Peninsular Road. It was impossible to overtake it, it ran at peak hour to get to work, and all we could do was sit behind it. To top it off, rocks would come off the top of the truck as it set out on its journey, and I got 3 broken windscreens in one month of driving (20 return journeys). Please make sure all the trailers have tracking wheels. Please make sure you minimize the rocks coming off the tops of the trucks. Thank you.
